

Bogong Outdoor Education Centre helps plant 400 trees

THE Bogong Outdoor Education Centre is doing its bit for the environment, working with visiting students to combat erosion.

Students from Nelson Park School recently spent two days planting more than 400 trees on a property near Morgan's Bridge.

The trees and shrubs were donated by Landcare.

An aim of the project was to provide the Geelong based students with the opportunity to have practical involvement in doing something positive for the environment.

On top of this, Bogong Outdoor Education Centre hopes to meet the school's sustainability goals through its involvement in the "ResourceSmart AuSSi Vic" program.

Kiewa Valley Observer
June 17th 2010.